1. INTRODUCTION

This is the 27th Bulletin of the Severn Estuary Gull Group, presenting data received in 2015. A dedicated army of birders at home and abroad, totalling 158, sent in sightings during the year enabling me to produce this bulletin along with an appendix detailing all of the records received.

Restricted access and bird scaring activities at the landfill sites in Gloucestershire and Worcestershire, using both falcons and pyrotechnics, meant that once again no catches were made during the year as well as a dramatic drop in the numbers of colour-ringed birds being observed at these sites. At one time 100+ sightings a day were recorded by John Sanders at the Gloucestershire landfill sites but there were only 20 sightings involving two gull species at these same sites in 2015. However past ringing efforts have ensured that recoveries of SEGG birds will continue well into the future, and some of our birds must now be 30+ years old and perhaps one of the 11,817 Black-headed Gulls we have ringed will exceed the longevity record which is currently held by a bird ringed by the old Worcester Gull Group in 1980 and found dead in the Netherlands in 2012, a time lapse of 32 years, 4 months and 9 days. Some of the other gull species SEGG have ringed are also producing some good longevity records as shown in our bulletins.

SEGG was formed in 1988 to investigate the population of gulls which make use of the Upper Severn roost and their movements. Specific objectives which were identified when the Group was originally formed were:

- (1) To establish the migratory behaviour of gulls feeding in winter on landfill sites and Gloucestershire and Hereford and Worcester with emphasis on the Lesser Black-backed Gull L. fuscus.
- (2) To establish the home range of gulls wintering in the two counties, and the degree of interchange between the landfill sites.
- (3) To investigate any correlation between feeding, roosting and loafing sites.
- (4) To investigate basic biometrics, and the potential for race separation in the hand.

The data which SEGG has gathered enables the Group to claim that it has met, and in instances exceeded, these objectives.

Moult activity was also recorded by SEGG leading to the publication of the first paper on 'The Primary Molt of the Lesser Black-backed Gull' which caught the attention of our learned friends at home and abroad and is quoted in other papers on moult in gulls. It is now available for research online.

The group has also had its share of rarities with the capture and colour-ringing of a Glaucous-winged Gull L. glaucescens in December 2006 and a not unexpected Caspian Gull L. cachinnans back in 1998. Unfortunately this latter gull was not colour-ringed to enable us to establish its origin but it was the first Caspian Gull to be caught and ringed in Britain. Others have since been caught and colour-ringed, and Polish colour-ringed birds have been reported at the landfill sites and at the Severn Estuary. A total of 54 Common Gull L. canus have also been caught and ringed by SEGG but only two have generated recoveries, one found dead a year later in Abingdon, and another two years later in Russia, 2529 km ENE of GLL where it was ringed. However, if they had also been colour-ringed then perhaps more sightings would have materialized, as foreign colour-ringed birds are often found in winter at landfill sites but more commonly at the Severn Estuary. Although observed occasionally at landfill sites only one Mediterranean Gull L. melanocephalus has been caught and ringed by SEGG. This juvenile bird was ringed in November 1994 at GLL, and by amazing coincidence was observed just 19 days later by myself and others in Plymouth, Devon where Mediterranean Gulls winter in increasing numbers.

The following four species of the crow family were also caught and ringed during gull catches - Jackdaw C. monedula (71), Carrion Crow C. corone (6), Rook C. frugilegus (56) and Magpie P. pica (2). No recoveries have been recorded from those ringed though a Jackdaw was caught again at the same GLL site where ringed two year later.

To conclude I will continue to check my e-mail each day in the hope that some of the colour-ringed birds that have yet to produce a single sighting will suddenly make an appearance, and those that already have will survive the pressures currently applied by all and sundry, at their breeding sites and at their wintering sites at home and abroad.

Eirol landfill site, Portugal on November 27, 2015 where a program to eradicate gulls from the site using falcons and gas cannons began at the end of the month. The once many thousands of wintering gulls that visited this site are now down to a few hundred. Many colour-ringed gulls, including 49 sightings of SEGG birds, have been reported from this location.

2. THE BTO FIVE-LETTER SPECIES CODE

For most tables the BTO five-letter Species Code (Table 1) has been used in this bulletin.

3. LANDFILL SITE CODE

All sites where catches were made, or where colour-ringed birds were observed, are shown in Table 2. The table also includes the co-ordinates and a three-letter identification code for each site. These codes are used throughout this bulletin.

4. RESULTS

4.1. Recoveries

Recoveries include birds found and reported by members of the public, recaptures by ringers, and rings read in the field (including birds with individually colour-coded rings). A total of 815 recoveries of four gull species was reported during the year, 542 (66%) were recovered in Britain. Of the 16 birds reported dead or sick 15 (94%) were recovered in Britain.

4.2. Field records of SEGG colour-ringed birds

Sightings of colour-ringed birds for the year totalled 776, with 533 (69%) of these being observed in Britain. Sightings of all colour-ringed birds now total 84,888. Recoveries and colour rings are dealt with more fully under each gull section.

5. BLACK-HEADED GULL L. ridibundus

5.1. Recoveries

Nine birds were recovered in 2015 - Britain (2), Germany (2), Holland (2), Denmark (2) and Poland (1). Two birds were found dead, on a golf course in Britain and in Denmark. One bird observed at Eidersperrwerk, Schleswig-Holstein, Germany, had already been reported at this location in 2014 and in four previous years. The longest time lapse between ringing and recovery was 19 years 63 days. This bird was ringed at SOL in 1996 and observed in Poland, a distance of 1131 km ENE of SOL. This was also the longest distance travelled by a bird recovered in 2015. The longest distances travelled by SEGG ringed birds involve those that have been recovered in Finland, up to 2713 km from where originally ringed at the landfill sites. There have been 40 recoveries in Finland. The longest time lapse between ringing and recovery for a SEGG ringed bird is currently 28 years and 114 days. Details about this bird were given in Bulletin 26. Since 1985 there have been 813 recoveries at 499 different locations with most recoveries, 248 (30%), in Great Britain. A total of 376 (46%) recoveries involved dead or sick birds.

5.2 Field records of birds colour-ringed elsewhere

Once again John Sanders provided the only field records of colour-ringed birds in Gloucestershire, 4 ringed in Britain and one each in Denmark, Germany and Poland. The Danish bird, White 2FB (shown left), was found at Cheltenham's Pittville Park, where it was observed on 14 occasions throughout the year. Also at the same Park was White A673, a German ringed individual. A bird reported from Slimbridge, White 27N1 (see photo), had been ringed as a chick at Hosehill Lake as part of the Berkshire gull scheme run by Tim Ball's Reading and Basingstoke ringing group. The scheme has been running at a number of Berkshire Black-headed Gull breeding colonies since 2007. So far, most birds have been ringed at Hosehill Lake, just to the southwest of Reading near Junction 12 of the M4, with smaller numbers at Lea Farm Gravel Pit to the east and Moor Green Lakes to the southeast (where the project initially began).

Two others, ringed at Slimbridge in 2010, were observed there. Also observed at Slimbridge in January 2015 was Yellow 2DCN. This individual had been ringed as an adult at Rainham Landfill Site in 2014 by the North Thames Ringing Group. The individual wearing a Polish ring, White TC39, was originally ringed with a metal ring only at Hyde Farm, Beaconsfield in 2003, retrapped at Przykona, Wielkopolskie, Poland where it was fitted with the colour ring. It has since been reported, in 2013 and March 2015, at a landfill site in Lithuania, before making an appearance at Slimbridge in November 2015. Movements of this bird are shown in Figure 2. As usual original ringing details for some of those ringed abroad have yet to be received.

6. LESSER BLACK-BACKED GULL L. fuscus

6.1. Recoveries

A total of 528 recoveries was reported during the year, including some late reports from previous years. Thirteen birds were found dead, nine in Britain and one each in France, Faeroes, Netherlands and Norway. A bird ringed at GLL in May 1988 with a metal ring only, was found dead at Havergate Island, Suffolk in August 2015, a time lapse of 27 years and 85 days. Once again birds were found in Morocco, one individual, Blue 892, at Anza, Agadir, a distance of 2472 km SSW from where originally ringed at SOL in 2005. This bird has been observed in Morocco on 16 occasions since being ringed and only twice in Britain, at the SOL and SOLG landfill sites.

6.2. SEGG colour-ringed birds

Sightings of colour-ringed birds were 140 short of the 2014 total with just 275 individuals generating 504 sightings, 282(56%) of sightings being in Britain. As in 2014 most sightings were of birds fitted with Blue rings, but 11 birds with White rings and three with Yellow rings were also reported. There were no sightings this year of the birds ringed as chicks on a rooftop in Hereford where a total of 60 were ringed, 30 each in 1996 and 1997 using Blue and Brown rings. Since 1996 Hereford ringed birds have generated 229 sightings.

Table 3 summarises the colour ring sightings for 2015 and Figures 3 & 4 show the geographical distribution of recoveries and colour ring sightings abroad and in Britain.

6.3. Controls of birds ringed elsewhere

Birds ringed elsewhere and controlled by SEGG in the past produced two sightings this year. In each case colour rings were added by SEGG. Blue AJH, originally ringed in Norway, was reported again at the same Albion Landfill Site in Leicestershire where it was reported in 2014 (see Bulletin 26). Another bird from the Netherlands was caught at GLL in 2007 but the ring was so badly worn that the date of ringing could not be established. This bird, fitted with a new metal ring and colour ring Blue CJE, was reported back in the Netherlands in February 2015.

6.4. Sightings of birds colour-ringed elsewhere

Only five birds colour-ringed elsewhere were found by John Sanders in 2015: two ringed in Bristol, and one each from Flat Holm, the Channel Islands and the Netherlands. Two birds, from Bristol and the Channel Islands, were found at SOLG, and the remainder at various sites in the Severn Estuary. A Bristol ringed bird was found in the rooftop breeding colony at Sharpness Docks in April.

7. HERRING GULL L. argentatus

7.1. Recoveries

Of the 273 recoveries reported during the year 257 (95%) were in Britain. There were 14 recoveries in France, four in the Netherlands and two in Norway. The recovery of Blue BJJ in Arctic Norway, at Vardø Havn, Vardø, Finnmark, was 2689 km NE of where originally ringed at GLL in 2007 and represents the longest distance travelled by a SEGG Herring Gull. This is our fourth recovery in Arctic Norway. A previous SEGG recovery, in 2011, was also above the Arctic Circle at Murmansk, Russia. The longest distance travelled in Britain was our James Bond, Blue 007, who travelled from SOL to Wick in Scotland, a distance of 725 km. This bird has only previously been reported from Gloucestershire and Somerset.

7.2. SEGG colour-ringed birds

There were 265 colour ring sightings reported in 2015, 250 (95%) in Britain and the remainder abroad. Eight birds were observed less than 40 km from where originally ringed. As shown in the Appendix a large number of those observed in Britain involve the same individuals, particularly Blue 771 which regularly visits a house in Portland to be fed. Others are regularly seen at the Nevern Estuary, Newport. Those abroad were found in France, the Netherlands and Norway.

Sightings of colour-ringed HERGU are summarized in Table 4 and Figures 5 & 6 show the geographical distribution of recoveries abroad and in Britain.

7.3. Field records of birds colour-ringed elsewhere

Only two colour-ringed birds were reported by John Sanders this year. One bird, Orange WJ4.T, was ringed in 2010 at Pitsea Landfill Site, Essex by the North Thames Ringing Group and observed at Slimbridge in December 2015. It was previously reported on five occasions at GLL and THL in 2010 and on 24 occasions in 2011. The second bird, Black FR was ringed in Bristol in 2012 and reported at SOL in January 2015.

8. Hybrid Gull (YELGU x HERGU)

8.1. Sightings of a colour-ringed bird

Previously reported under Yellow-legged Gull, but now officially recorded as a hybrid bird, Blue EEA continues to generate sightings with a further four observations in the Netherlands in 2015. This most photographed bird has generated 37 sightings since it was ringed at SOL in 2008, 28 in the Netherlands, two in France and seven in Britain.

9. GREAT BLACK-BACKED GULL L.marinus

9.1. Recoveries

Blue MCM was the only bird sighted in 2015, in January at the Camel Estuary, Cornwall in January where it was also reported in December 2014. Only 29 birds have been caught since 1987 and only eight of these were colour-ringed. Six birds have generated 86 sightings in Britain, Denmark, the Netherlands and Norway and two metal-ringed only birds have been recovered in Norway. Birds ringed as chicks in France and Norway have been observed at the Gloucestershire landfill sites as well as an adult bird ringed in Finnmark, Norway.
